

AGE 900	PHD THESIS
Course Description	Each student will concentrate on his/her research work and present an original PhD Thesis, which is examined according to the existing University regulations. The students will be expected to present three seminars; the research proposal, post-field work seminar and a seminar on the draft thesis before submission. The student will also be expected to publish from the research and to present papers at conferences